Married: unk
Children: Jacob Dundore

HISTORY - John Miguel was of French Huguenot stock and left his native land during the Revocation period and settled in the Rhine Provinces Alsace or Lorraine. He was born in about 1690 and it is assumed he remained in Alsace and never came to America.

MYSTERY - The surname Dundore is believed to have arrived at it's present spelling after being in America it's first 48 years. Records show the following spellings: Dunder - Dundier - Dundare - Dunder - Dundeer - Dundor - Dondor - Dondoer . We assume the name to be of French origin although it may have been altered in Alsace-Lorraine.

A Short Huguenot History

The French branch of the Reformation came to be referred to as the Huguenots. In the main they followed the teachings of the French-born Reformer John Calvin.

By the middle of the 1550's the first congregations became established in France, and before the decade was finished there were over 70 churches, which met for their first Synod in 1559. In 1559, a sickly fifteen year old Charles IX ascended to the throne. The government was run by his mother, Catherine Medicis. Three powerful families contended for supreme power in France. Each was territorially based in a section of the country. Two of the families developed strong Huguenot sympathies.

At first, Catherine Medicis tried to promote peace between the Catholics and Protestants by granting certain privileges to the Huguenots by means of the Edict of St. Germain (1561). The peace became short-lived when on 1st March, 1562 a number of Catholics descended on a large Huguenot assembly in Vassy, killing 1200. This ignited the Wars of Religion which would rip apart, devastate, and bankrupt France for the next three decades.

By August 1570, the Regent Catherine de Medici was forced to declare the Peace of St. Germain to prevent the Huguenots from taking Paris. Their leader and spokesman, Gaspard Coligny, succeeded in obtaining freedom of religious practice in all cities except Paris. Coligny was the Admiral of the French navy as well as Governor of Picardy. He joined the Protestants in 1559. The Peace of St Germain had illustrated clearly just how much power was vested in the Huguenots. The Catholics feared this power and it was decided to eliminate the Huguenots, particularly their leaders. With the marriage of Prince Henry of Navarre, a Huguenot, to Marguerite Valois (daughter of Catherine Medici) on 23rd and 24th August, 1572 a golden opportunity presented itself. It happened during the wedding, when thousands of Huguenots converged on Paris for the wedding celebrations.

At some point during the night of August 23, the decision was taken at the Louvre to kill Coligny and the Huguenot leaders gathered around him. Charles IX was certainly there along with Catherine de' Medici and Henri d'Anjou. It may not have been originally intended to be a general massacre. Charles IX was reputedly badgered into this decision by Catherine and his councillors, and when he finally broke he is alleged to have said, "Well, then kill them all that no man be left to reproach me." The killing spread into the country side and lasted for 3 days. The powerful Huguenot Henry of Navarre's life was spared by pretending to support the Roman Catholic faith. Despite persecution, Protestantism continued to flourish in Orange, Uzès, and especially Nîmes even though religious battles occurred regularly.

When Henry of Navarre (King Henry IV) came to the throne in 1589 he pressed for the basic civil rights for the Huguenots although he himself had turned back to Catholicism. The 1598 Edict of Nantes temporarily brought relief to the persecuted church. However, in 1685 King Louis XIV of France revoked the edict. This drove the bulk of the Huguenots out of the country. France lost so many highly skilled and industrious people in this "brain and skill drain," that its economy suffered severely. It is estimated that more than 250,000 French fled. Perhaps that many more were killed in France before they could flee. Chief of state Richelieu, whose obsession was the unification of all aspects of French society into a form approved by Paris, eventually suppressed or destroyed Huguenot communities throughout France. The bloodiest of these skirmishes was in the Atlantic coast port of La Rochelle, but also destroyed were the Provençal strongholds at Uzès and Les Baux. The holocaust continued until the French Revolution. Many Huguenots who did not find their death in local prisons or execution on the wheel of torture, were shipped to sea to serve their sentences as galley slaves. They were chained down to row galley slave ships which were not part of the French Navy (the French Navy was mostly Huguenot).

In 1741 the British "Friendship"** docked in the colonial city of Philadelphia at what is known today as Penn's Landing. Aboard were Jacob Dundore and his brother John from the Alsace-Lorraine area of Europe. The "Friendship's" voyage began at Rotterdam Port in the Netherlands and the two brothers probably boarded at Strassburge on the edge of Alsace and its chief city, Eischweiler, Pflaz. Jacob's age was listed as 18 years, probably a passenger list error or perhaps deceit by Jacob to obtain a cheaper fare. John is not listed by name, probably because passengers under 16 were not listed that way.

In the early 1700's England enticed many disgruntled inhabitants of the upper Rhineland area called the "Palatinate" to strike out for freedom and land in Pennsylvania. Sturdy German labor was needed to make the colonies a success and of the estimated 500,000 immigrants that made the voyage, many were Huguenots. Unlike the majority of these new world seekers, Jacob and John seemed to have paid their way up front in cash and therefore avoided being indentured to work their debt off on someone else's farm. As they migrated from Philadelphia, west into Berks County, they probably labored as "knechts", farmhands who basically lived with their employers for room and board and very little cash.

Being treated unjustly by the people of Philadelphia who called them the "Palatines", many Palatinates moved west and by the time Jacob and John bought their Berks County property from the William Penn descendants, hard to farm rocky land was all that was left. About 1745, Jacob had met and married Anna Maria and John had taken Maria Dorothe as his wife and by 1750, both men owned land. The brothers, separated by 10 or more miles, kept in contact with each other as their families grew and their farms progressed. The records of the Host Church of Tulpehocken Township of Berks County show them sponsoring each others children at baptisms. This meant long journeys by horseback between Tulpehocken and Pine Grove Township through the gap of Berks Counties' Blue Mountain.

Jacob and Anna Maria had 8 children as their fortunes grew, but John's farm failed in 1758 and he was forced to sell his land and move south of his brother into Lancaster County, eventually settling in York County. As time went on, both families lost contact with each other.

In 1760, after being in the colonies the required amount of time and also meeting the religious requirements, Jacob "Dundor"*** was naturalized by the "Supream Court"*** sitting in Philadelphia as a subject of Great Britain. Loyalties soon changed, however, as 17 years later, Jacob, an astute businessman, sold and delivered food and supplies to General Washington's army at Valley Forge (1777-78). He continued to do so for the duration of the American Revolution.

In 1771, Jacob bought an additional farm, 246 acres in all, several miles east of his Tulpehocken homestead east of Bernville Township in Berks County. It was on this farm that Jacob died in 1789. Today, Jacob along with many of his family, is buried in the Bern Church graveyard near where his Bernville farm was once located. His wife, Anna Maria's grave marker, originally of sandstone material has long since disappeared, but by looking at the pattern of the Dundore graves, it is apparent she is buried next to Jacob.

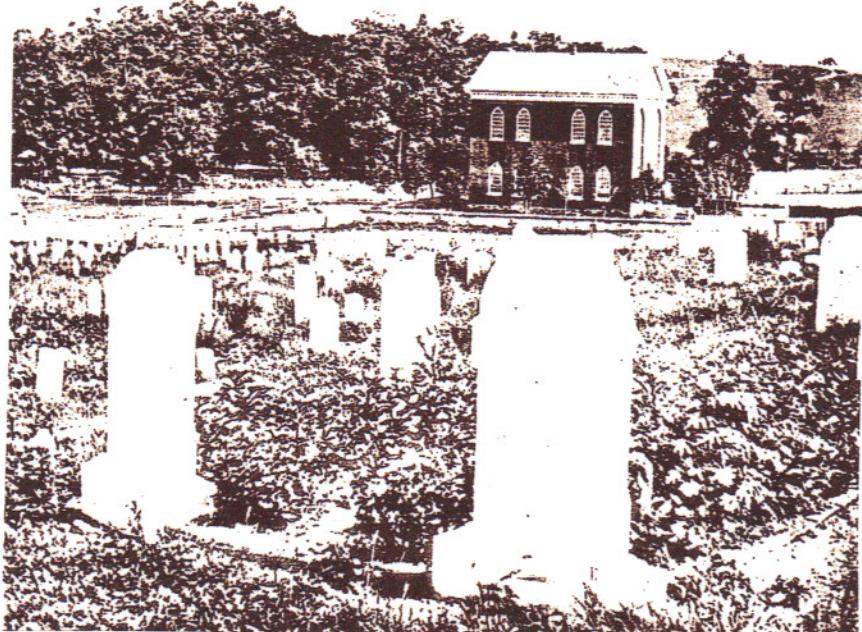

It is believed that unlike other American surnames, if you are in any way an American descendent of a Dundore, you are the direct blood descendent of Jacob.

BROTHER JOHN'S FAILED FARM

Acquiring his farm in the location that he did, John Dundore, (1)Jacob's brother, more or less sealed his fate. Excerpts taken from Reverend I. Noble Dundore's family history explains how.

John secured from the Penn Proprietary's, patent to a tract of 125 acres in "Pine Grove Township". Berks County was created in 1752. Its territory stretched indefinitely northward beyond the Blue Mountains and was divided into 27 districts, two of which were named Pine Grove and Tulpehocken. Pine Grove was a place on the Swatara Creek, where it cut through the Blue Mountains into the Lebanon Valley. The summer hills are the watershed between the Swatara and Tulpehocken Creek basins.

A notation in the baptismal register of Host Church affords a clue to the general location of the land grant John Dundore got from the Penn people. The pastor records baptisms done on the other side of the Blue Mountains, among them a child of John and Maria Dorethea Dundore. Uncle Jacob and Aunt Ana Maria sponsored the baby and to do so must have had a long and arduous trip to span the distance between their home in the summer hills and John's home on the other side of Blue Mountains. It took them through the pass where the town of Pine Grove now stands and that, very likely on horseback. So the two brothers Dundore kept in affectionate contact with each other after marriage.

Brother John did not prosper like Jacob. The property he acquired about the same time Jacob acquired his did not make him rich. Grants from the Penn Proprietary's were not entirely for free. They were conditional terms which, though easy, John could not fulfill. That would be understandable. The land he got no doubt was virgin wilderness. It would have to be cleared before it could be farmed and that would take time and terrific labor. Once the farm was in production, marketing the produce was next to impossible because of the remoteness of the location. There were no sizable towns nearby, nor any navigable streams to float crops to Philadelphia.

John probably did not know that he had more than a patch of wilderness that required such tiresome labor of hacking and grubbing to subdue it into cropland that it was hardly worth the effort. Beneath his feet was the potential of fabulous wealth, a vein of anthracite coal. It was just black rock curious for being flammable.

The Indians, resenting the white man's deeper and deeper inroads into their hunting grounds and egged on by the French, were on the warpath. John's land was on the edge of white habitation and thus very vulnerable to attack. All around him settlers were being burned out and massacred. Recently an old letter was found written by an officer named Busse of the regiment of rangers under Col. Conrad Weiser reporting that Indians had struck John Dundore's property on January 29, 1756.

John Dundore and his family managed to conceal themselves from the Indians, and when it appeared to be safe to do so returned to their home to find that the marauders had burned their stable. Being the dead of winter, that very likely meant the loss of livestock as well as building. What other depredations they committed is not known. It seems as though John never recovered sufficiently from this disaster to do what it took to clinch title to the tract given him by the Penn's. The Indian menace impeded the effort. The Swatara Gap was their warpath into the Lebanon Valley whenever they chose to raid for slaughter and plunder. The provincial government was too weak to plug up the hole. For years, the settlers lived in constant fear of sporadic Indian ambush. Nobody knew whom their savage fancy would choose for their next victim.

Apparently these difficult conditions broke the will of John Dundore to hang on and hold out. If his patent was in danger of reverting to the Penn's for default of terms, he needed only to ask his brother Jacob for help and it would be forthcoming. He was not interested in retaining his holding because of its exposure to the Indians. He wanted to get out from under the shadow of fear. So he put his property up for sale and found a buyer in one Mathias Razer. On June 26, 1762, he relinquished his homestead by deed to this man.

Upon selling their land, John and Maria Dorethea Dundore moved south through Berks County deep into Lancaster County. The brothers had separated for good, thus creating two of the three Dundore family branches, the Bern Branch and the John Dundore Branch.

(1) JACOB DUNDORE'S TWO FARMS

Sometime before 1754, Jacob and Anna Maria Dundore bought their first tract of land from the William Penn descendants. Once again sighting the Reverend I. Noble Dundore Family History.

Nathan Dundore, in his "Dundore Record", calls the land Jacob Dundore acquired near Host Church a "farm", but the nature of the terrain, the much more than homestead size of the tract (400 A), and the modesty of the price for which it was sold (300 pounds) disqualify it for the title of "farm". In the article of conveyance to Valentine Heberling, (1785) it is stated that included in the sale was a water-powered saw mill. That tells what sort of farming Jacob did there. He harvested trees and sawed them into lumber.

There was doubtless a ready market for saw mill products. Hewing logs for the body, the rafters, and the joists of a building could be done with reasonable celerity with ax and adze. Splitting short sections of log into shingles with a froe and dressing them with a draw knife on a "schnitzelbank" was relatively easy. But making planks for doors, door-jams, windows casings and flooring with ax and adze was a formidable undertaking. Sawing them out with a two-man rip saw would be an interminable job. A power saw mill was just the thing. There were plenty of streams sizable enough to be dammed up for water power. Jacob Dundore had an eye for business. He made a handsome fortune out of his "farm" of woods on the agriculturally worthless Summer Hills. That this was a lucrative business may be judged by the tombstone of Valentine Heberling in the oldest portion of the Host Church Cemetery. It is the most substantial marker there, still in tact and legible whereas most of them have disintegrated or weathered into illegibility. Heberling must have done as well for himself as Dundore had done.

Jacob, however, had competition. Records show several sawmills operating along the Swatara and other formidable creeks. At some time in the 1770's, Jacob took Valentine Heberling on as a business partner at the sawmill. Although he had bought an additional farm and moved to it in the early 1770's, Jacob's partner did not buy him out until 1785.

Between 1726 and 1732, Stephen Brecht, his brothers, Michael and Johannes, and Stephen's 2 sons, David and Wendel immigrated to Berks County. Because of their early arrival, the family was able to obtain prime farmland and all seemed to prosper. In 1770, Wendel Brecht sold 177 of his 213 acres to Jacob Miller, another Palatinate immigrant who already owned 69 adjacent acres. Perhaps Jacob Miller bit off more than he could chew or saw a good chance of making a quick profit, but in 1771 he sold all his 246 acres to Jacob Dundore.

Jacob moved on to his new farm and managed to get it under cultivation just in time to profit from selling food and feed to the Continental Army at Valley Forge and throughout the duration of the war. When Jacob died at his Bernville Farm in 1789, his son (4) John received the land. John in turn passed the land down to his son (11) John Adam whom when he died, passed the property to his sons (31) Samuel and (32) Adam. The farm stayed in the Dundore family until about 1911 when both brothers had died.

AGNES FLOODS BERKS COUNTY

Around 1910-15, Jacob Dundore's Bernville farm passed into the hands of the Hottenstein family. They lived and worked the farm up to around the time in 1972 when tropical storm Agnes brought torrential rains to eastern Pennsylvania. Berks County experienced heavy flooding and millions of dollars in property damage. The Army Corps of Engineers were brought in to attempt to stop any future problems. The Corps designed an earthen dam across the Tulpehocken Creek which drains a 175 mile area upstream from the Brecht-Dundore-Hottenstein farm. By building the dam, they created an 11 billion gallon reservoir now called the Blue Marsh Recreation Area. Unfortunately, Jacob Dundore's fine farmland became part of this 28,000 acre lake area.

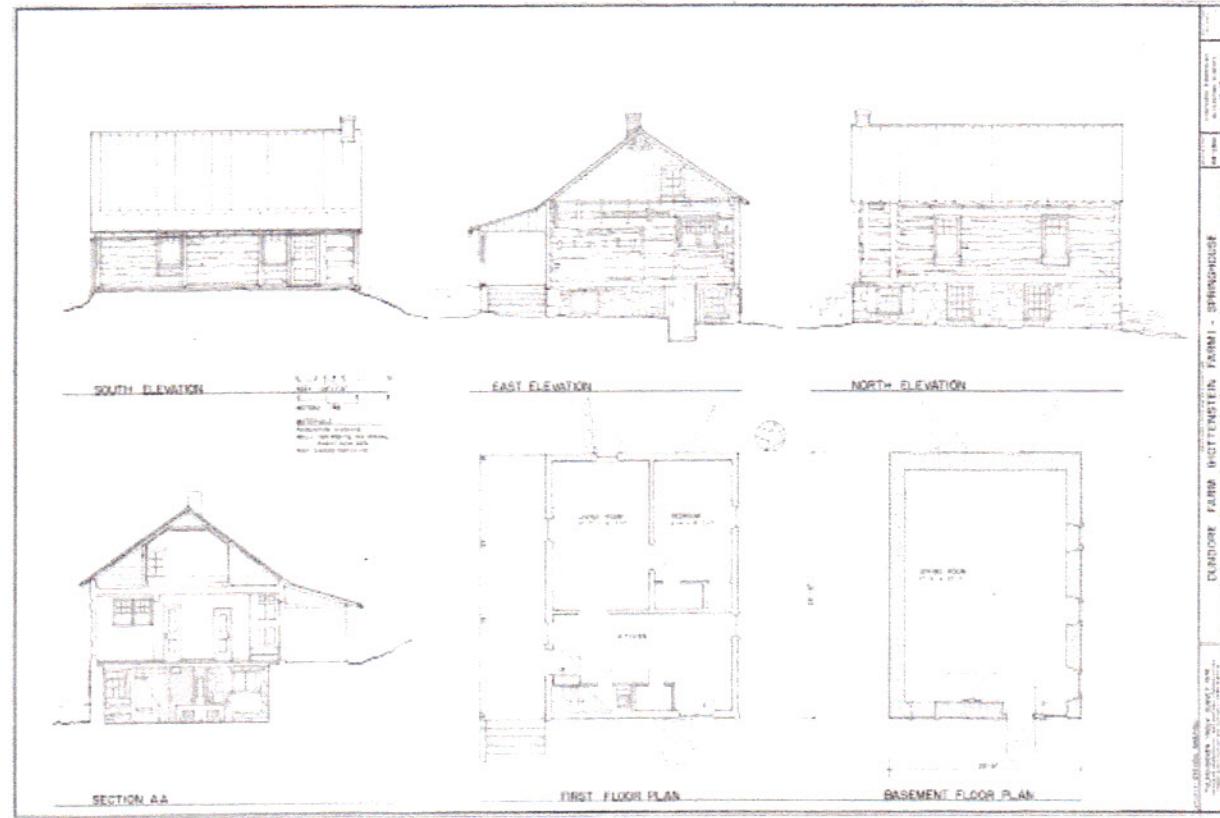

Because of the historical significance of the 200 year old farmstead, the Corps found 200 acres of high dry land about 2 miles distant, and moved all six of the original buildings there. In order to do so, the Amish of Lancaster County were hired to disassemble and reassemble the buildings. Because of their 18th Century lifestyle, they were fully acquainted with the techniques of building with logs and pitch.

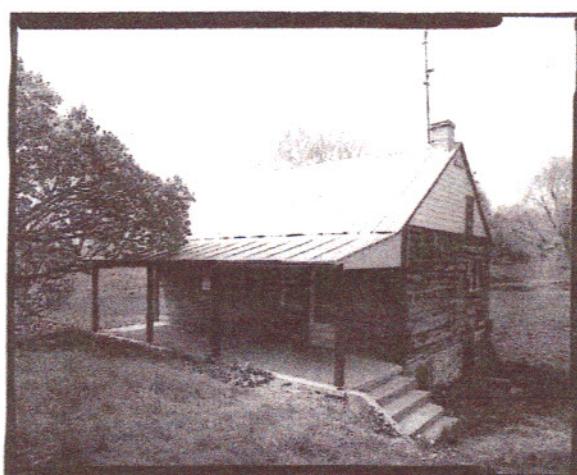

Today Blue Marsh Lake covers the fertile land of Jacob Dundore's Bernville Farm - In the distance are the Blue Mountains. Tulpehocken in Indian means "Land of the Turtles"

Today the "Old Dry Road Farm" or the "Brecht-Dundore-Hottenstein" complex is on the National Register of Historic Places and continues to be useful. School children are taken to this living history and educational center and shown the daily life of a working farm in the 18th and 19th centuries.

In 1973, the Army Corps of Engineers photographed and blueprinted the six buildings of the Dundore farm before disassembling them.

At age 22, 3rd generation (30)
Jacob Dundore wrote his name on the side of the spring house.

(4) JOHN DUNDORE

(4) John, the first American born male of (1) Jacob and Anna Maria was born in Tulpehocken Township, Berks County, PA March 20, 1751 and died October 14, 1823, preceding his wife, Catherine, by 4 years. He farmed his entire life, first on his father's farm in Tulpehocken Township and then at Bern Township. He inherited the Bern farm when his father Jacob died in 1789.

(4) John Dundore is our direct Revolutionary War ancestor.

John and Catherine (Geiss) raised 9 children, his second son 11, John Adam, inheriting the Bern farm in 1823. Both John and Catherine died in their 70's and are buried side by side in the Bern Cemetery.

These are the grave markers of John and Catherine Dundore. They aren't bad photo's, but sandstone worn to the point of almost being illegible. Time has also discolored them greatly. Along with the flag on John's grave is a weathered bronze medallion honoring him for his patriotic service in the Revolutionary War.

THE OATH OF ALLEGIANCE

The general assembly, of Pennsylvania, June 12, 1777, passed an act requiring the men of the state to take an oath of allegiance and fidelity to the state. This was necessary owing to the loosely joined federation of states in rebellion against the King and to having no constitution; the test oath showing who would openly stand for the new government. This oath required great courage on the part of those who took it, for if the revolutionary cause should fail, their property would surely be confiscated and they, themselves, be imprisoned. In some counties of the State many declined to take the oath, but in Berks County, nearly every man took it.

The system of supplying men was simple and effective. It was carried on in such a manner as to render assistance to the government without the people suffering losses. The time of service was short and many returned and attended to their crops, upon which the army depended for forage and supplies and that their families might not starve, and went out again. Others offended against discipline and went home to attend to their affairs before their terms of service expired and almost invariably returned when a fight was impending. Through this method, several hundred militiamen were kept in the field continuously, from Berks County, to reinforce the operations of the regular line under General Washington.

The Berks County militiamen all of whom took the oath of allegiance, guarded prisoners, were in the campaign in New Jersey; while Washington's army was at Valley Forge they reinforced it and assisted the militia of other counties in patrolling and guarding the open country between Schuylkill and Delaware Rivers, and also participated in the battles of Brandywine and Germantown.

*Of the 6,000 men of Berks County, who served in the Revolutionary War as associators, militiamen, or long term continentals, scarcely two-thirds of their names are on record. Missing names may occasionally turn up, but the bulk of them will never be found.**

We are fortunate to have historical records of both (4) John Dundore and his brother, 6. Jacob joining the Berks County militia.** John joined Conrad Eckerd's 6th Company, 4th Battalion of Col. Nicholes Lutz in 1777 as a Private. It appears that John may have taken a long term commitment for he is mentioned as being a sergeant at Valley Forge in the winter of 1777-78. References are also made to him driving a supply wagon to and from the supply depot at Reading, Pennsylvania, the same depot his father (1) Jacob probably sold and delivered supplies to.

Not much is known about what 6. Jacob did during the war. He enlisted in Captain Soder's 5th Company of the 3rd Battalion of the Bern/Berks County Militia in 1777. It is likely that both brothers fought at Brandywine and Germantown before going into winter camp at Valley Forge. At least 60% of the troops at Valley Forge were from Pennsylvania. Its also possible they were involved in the Patriot victory at Mammouth, New Jersey in the early summer of 1778. After their service, (4) John and 6. Jacob returned to farming. Jacob purchased land on the south side of Tulpehocken Creek in Heidelberg Township. Because of this, the third branch of the Dundore family came into being.

Today they are known as the Bern descendants, the (1) John Dundore descendants and the Heidelberg descendants.

ABOUT VALLEY FORGE

After defeats at Brandywine in September and Germantown in October, General Washington moved his army into winter camp at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, 20 miles northwest of Philadelphia, close enough to watch the British and on good defensive ground. His men immediately went to work building close to 2,000 12-man log cabins. Over the winter many left for their homes while over 2,500 died from disease bringing their numbers down from 12 to 6,000. Nonetheless, warm and secure in their cabins and well trained by Baron Friedrich W.A. von Steuben of Prussian fame they persevered, and were drilled into an elite military fighting force. In the spring of 1778 their ranks swelled to over 20,000 men and with France recognizing an independent America, the tide of the war turned against the British.

(16) Philip Dundore most likely spent his early life on the family farm in Bern Township, east of Bernville, PA. Records show him living in Pennsylvania in 1830, along with Maria and 7 of their 11 children. We can assume their 8th child 63. John was born there also shortly after the 1830 census was taken.

In about 1831, Philip and his family moved to Green Township, Stark County, Ohio. There, the last of their children 64. William, 65. Philip Yost and 66. Hannah was born. Thus, Philip became the first of our direct ancestors to migrate west.

Land records show that Philip moved to Lawrence County, IL purchasing 40 acres of farmland in 1843 and again in 1848.

In 1860, Philip is listed with Maria, his wife and children 65. Philip Yost and 66. Hannah living in Wheatland Township, Will County, Illinois. The next year, Maria Dundore (Woods) died at 64 years, preceding Philip Dundore, who died at 76 years in the year 1867.

(64) William Henry Dundore, son of (16) Philip, was born May 14, 1833 in Green Township, Stark County, Ohio. When he was about 9 years of age his family moved to Lawrence County, Illinois in the vicinity of Bowl and Birds Township. There he met Ohio born Rebecca Cochran and married on February 5, 1852.

William's father and family had moved to Will County, IL and William, Rebecca and their growing family followed, settling in Salina Township, Kankakee, IL. There William farmed on rented land owned by Jacob M. Hertz.

In the 1860 U.S. Census, William is listed in Salina with Rebecca, Elizabeth 9 years, Mary 6 years, Sarah 3 years and John 1 year. On August 8, 1862, 6 months after his son, Jacob Truman was born; he enlisted in the Illinois Volunteer Infantry at Salina. He is described as light complected, 5 feet 8-3/4 inches tall with gray eyes and brown hair.

After being mustered in for a 3 year period, he was sent with Company I 76th Regiment, Illinois to Columbus, Kentucky. Given Enfield rifles and some training, his Company was then sent to Holly Springs, Mississippi near the Tallahatchie River. There, due to a persistent cough and cold, William was sent to an Army hospital in Jackson, Tennessee from September 2 to September 4, 1862.

Upon hospital release, William caught up with his Company at Bolivar, TN. and shortly thereafter lost his fore and middle finger in a shooting accident. The loss of these fingers was the reason William was given his disability discharge on November 24, 1962.

William returned home and went back to farming, but soon was forced to quit. His persistent cough was lung disease. Leaving Salina, William headed towards Chicago, IL around 1865, most likely to find a less demanding job. The 1870 Census lists him working in a broom factory. By December 29, 1870 William has died.

While living in Chicago, William and Rebecca had become active in the Evangelical Association. Perhaps they helped the widow Rebecca and her children put food on the table. At this time, 7 of her 9 children were still at home, 2 having died.

About 1887, the United States altered its pension standards and Rebecca was able to file an application for a widow's pension. She has certain requirements that have to be met. The two most challenging is:

Proving William was healthy before entering the Army and was sick coming out

Proving the birthdates of her children

(Complicated by the fact that the family Bible with critical dates was lost in the Great Chicago Fire of October, 1871)

Through a series of affidavits, Rebecca gets her widow's pension of $8.00 per month and is listed in the 1900 Census as living at 147 Menominee Street, Chicago, IL. In 1914, while living her son Aaron, at 2106 Grace St., Chicago, Rebecca's dies.

in relation to the aforesaid claim, as follows:

That she cannot furnish record evidence of the dates of the births of her children John M. Dundore, Sarah Ann Dundore, Jacob T. Dundore, Aaron G. Dundore and Wm H. Dundore Jr for the reason that there are no public or church records thereof extant, the three first named were born in Plainfield Illinois and there is no record thereof. Aaron G. was born at Kankakee, and there is no record thereof to be had and that Wm H. was born in Chicago, the records of which City were destroyed in the year 1871. Affiant has also tried to furnish the testimony of those present at the times of the births of the above named children but she has been unable to find those who would know and remember the facts. Affiant has an old bible wherein was entered the date of the births of Sarah Ann Dundore and John M. Dundore, but she has no record whatever of the date of the birth of the other three children Jacob T. Dundore, Aaron G. Dundore and Wm H. Dundore Jr because the bible in which said record was kept was also destroyed by the great Chicago fire. Affiant in conclusion states that Sarah Ann Dundore was born March 15, 1857, John M. About 2d. or October 1862 while in the line of duty the said soldier was taken sick with a severe cough and cold, caused affiant believes by the exposure and insufficient food and irregular habits incident to the service. I think we were near Kelly Springs when Dundore was taken sick and that he was left there at hospital for treatment, or at Jackson, Penn. Affiant further states that Dundore never became well afterwards and he believes the consumption or affection of the lungs was the result of this cold and exposure in the service as above described. Dundore was also wounded in the right or left hand at Bolivar, Penn. during the winter of 1862 (he thinks). And these facts are personally well known to him by reason of his association with

61. William E Dundore – Heidelberg Branch
Born: November 6, 1839

William E enlisted in Company A Pennsylvania 167th Infantry Regiment on November 10, 1862. Wounded in action, he was mustered out of the service on August 12, 1863 at Reading, PA. He later applied for a service pension as an invalid.

103. Adam Dundore – Bern Branch
Born: January 2, 1844

Adam enlisted as a Private in Company I 101st Infantry Regiment Ohio on August 30, 1862. Just 3 months later on November 12, 1862 he died from disease at Danville, Kentucky.

49. George Dundore – 1. John Dundore Branch

George joined Company C Pennsylvania 202nd Infantry Regiment on September 3, 1864. He was mustered out of the service on August 3, 1865 at Harrisburg, PA. We assume that George survived the War, but don't know of his condition. His father, John filed for his Military Pension in 1892.

(64) WILLIAM H DUNDORE'S DISTANT CIVIL WAR KIN SOME DESCENDANTS OF 1. JOHN DUNDORE

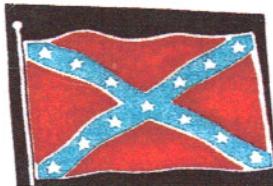

Although brothers 1. Jacob and 1. John first settled in Berks County, PA after coming to America, John did not stay there his entire life. He is reported to have died in York County, PA in 1774. Through time, his descendants have spread into Maryland and Virginia. It would be difficult to find them all and after all they are not our direct ancestors, but nonetheless, kinfolk can be interesting.

57. David C b. Nov. 20, 1840 d. Feb. 15, 1912

Elijah Dundore was born in the Shenandoah Valley area of Virginia. At the age of 23 he was fighting in the War of 1812 from August 1814 to February 1815.* He was a member of Captain William McMahon's Company, of the 116th Regiment of Rockingham 3rd Division Cavalry, under Major Woodford's command.

In 1838, he is found farming 100 acres of his own land in Rockingham County. Soon his sons, Samuel J. and David C. were born and shortly after he marries Nancy Grove on July 21, 1842.** Records show that Elijah and Nancy owned slaves in 1850 and 1860, the year Elijah died from paralysis.***

At the outbreak of the Civil War, Samuel J, then 24 yrs. and David C, 23 yrs. joined the war on the side of the Confederate States of America. Taking their own horses and saddles, they Joined Company H of the 12th Regiment, Virginia Cavalry.

As with all Virginia cavalry, their regiment was under the overall command of General Robert E. Lee and like most, under the immediate command of Major General Jeb Stuart. Virginia being the cockpit of Civil War hostilities afforded the brothers with much hard riding and fighting. One memorable battle was that of Antietam/Sharpsburg, Maryland, where they guarded the lower crossings of Antietam Creek on the right flank of the Army of Northern Virginia. Today, this area is known as Burnsides Bridge after Union General Ambrose Burnside, who spent much of the day trying to cross there.

Having survived the war, both brothers returned to raise families and farm the Rockingham County countryside. This time, however, without the use of slave labor.

Jacob T Dundore

Sex: Male
Birth: 23 February 1862
Death: 29 April 1892 – Chicago, IL
Buried: Graceland Cemetery – Chicago, IL
Father: William E. Dundore
Mother: Rebecca Dundore (Cochran)
Married: Sophia Hecht abt 1885
Born: 28 February 1864 – Chicago, IL
Death: 25 September 1927 – Chicago, IL
Buried: Graceland Cemetery – Chicago, IL

Children: 386. Mabel, b. May 1886
387. Albert A., b. June 1887
388. Rosa Bertha b. October 27, 1889, d. November 17, 1959

(239) Jacob Truman Dundore and Sophia Hecht were born 2 years apart of each other in Chicago, IL. Jacob is listed in the 1880 census as 17 years old and working as a salesman. Tradition has it that at one time he also worked as a "chicken plucker". He and his widowed mother, Rebecca, and 3 brothers were living at 273 Hurlbut St. in a rented apartment. Also living in that building were William and Maria Hecht and their small daughter.

Sophia Hecht, William's 15 year old little sister was still living a few blocks away with her parents at 605 Sedgwick Ave. One can only wonder how Jacob and Sophia met. Did big brother Bill introduce them? Did they attend the same classes in school? Within a few years around 1885, they were married. Also around this time, Hurlbut St. is changed to Cleveland Ave. and it is most likely at 281 N. Cleveland that their 3 children were born. This was also the address at which Jacob Truman died at a young age in 1892.*

Shortly after Jacob Truman was buried at Lincoln Cemetery, Sophia received word that all the graves would be moved to make room for what is now Lincoln Park. Tradition has it that Sophia oversaw Jacob's exhumation and relocation to his present grave at Graceland Cemetery.

Sophia and her 3 children stayed together for the next 20 years being shown at 1244 West Diversey Blvd. in 1900 and at a rented house at 1113 Wolfram St. in 1910. By then, all 3 children were holding jobs. Mabel, 23 yrs. was a sales lady in a department store. Albert, 22 yrs. was an assistant manager in a cycle factory and Rosa Bertha, 20 yrs. an office worker at a book concern.

We don't know where Sophia Hecht Dundore was living in 1920, but family tradition says she spent time with her youngest daughter, Rosa and husband, Wilmer. She shared a bed with Wilmer's mother, Sophie Matthias Dillman with their granddaughter, Bernice Alberta sleeping between them. In 1927, Sophia Hecht Dundore died in Ravenswood Hospital, Chicago, IL. She was listed as residing with her son, Albert at 2259 W. Giddings St., Chicago, IL.**

Michael Hecht and Rosina Killgot emigrated to the U.S. from Germany and arrived June 5, 1849.* Their ships name was the Queen Victoria and it originated in Deutschland and departed for New York, U.S.A. from Havre, France. Michael and Rosina were most likely married in Buffalo, N.Y., as their first child was born about March/April of 1850.** Shortly after 1852 Michael and Rosina Hecht relocated to Chicago where the rest of their children were born. Michael was employed as a laborer and a ropemaker in the course of his life.

THEIR FAREWELL CACKLE

THE LIVES OF HENS SACRIFICED TO SATISFY CURIOSITY.

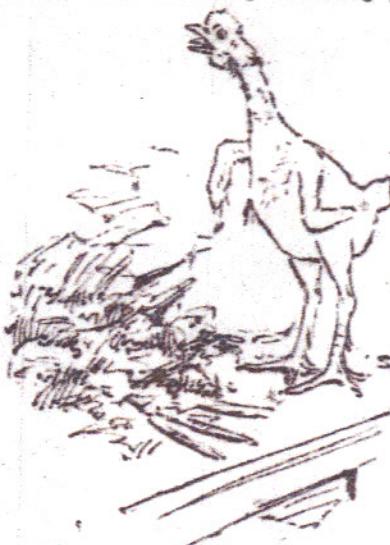

There Was to Have Been a "Grand Chicken-Dressing" Contest—One of the So-Called Champions Failing to Put in an Appearance the Affair Resolved Itself Into an Exhibition of Brothers' Skill as Fowl-Murderers—The Babe Crowed.

The feathers flew last night. There was to be a "Grand Chicken Dressing" at Schneider's Hall, corner of Larrabee and Wisconsin streets, and all the North Side sporting world turned out to see it. Sportsmen of ten years filled the balcony; sportsmen of twenty spit, chewed, and smoked bad tobacco in the pit. A row of women were present and some of them, with maternal solicitude, brought infants at their breasts.

The performance announced for 8 o'clock began after half past 10. By that time there was Pandemonium in the sporting world. The balcony was dropping rude jokes into the pit; the pit was hurling repartee at the balcony. A slim young man at the piano tried to stem the disorder by playing "Only a Fancy Blossom." He was received with jeers.

Shakespeare's head, limned on the proscenium, bade over the stage. To the right of it were seven chicken crates, containing the doomed fowls. To the left was a steaming caldron.

The chickens seemed to be resigned to their fate. Though the caldron hissed and bubbled so close to them they viewed the situation with fortitude, like victims of the Spanish Inquisition confronted by the rack or the stake. An elderly fowl—long past the orthodox age of chickens—looked out contemptuously at the audience from between her bars, much as a noble French lady, on her way to the revolutionary guillotine, might have regarded the rabble that crowded around her tumbril.

The pianist tried to soothe their last moments by playing "White Wings" and "Sweet Violets." But the chickens hid their heads beneath their wings. They were dead to earthly considerations.

About half-past 9 a man swung a pair of glistening, silver-streaked Indian clubs. Then another man talked ventriloquially with two puppets. But the chickens did not heed them. The stillness of death lay upon the hencoops.

It was past 10 before a young man, whose occasional appearances on the boards had excited derision, drew two barrels of sawdust from beneath the stage and began to prepare the place of execution. The curtain was lowered while he was at work. And the chickens neither moved nor clucked.

The match was made for $50 a side between Mr. William Dundore of Chicago and Mr. F. E. Wilson, surnamed the champion of St. Louis. When the sawdust had been strewn a mild but muddle-headed person stepped forward and said that Mr. Wilson had not come. For that reason the stakes went to Mr. Dundore.

This announcement was received with yells. "We don't believe a word of it," cried the sports.

"Then, gentlemen," said the muddle-headed man, "let me introduce to you Mr. Jacob T. Dundore, the champion chicken-dresser of the world."

A table placed under the stage made a convenient step. An excited individual with short hair instantly mounted. "Who says," he cried, "that J. T. Dundore is the champion chicken-dresser of the world? Chicken-dressing is an art unknown to Europe. In what part of Europe has Mr. Dundore tested his skill?"

"Germany," shouted a voice.

"I am willing," continued the short-haired individual, "to back my friend Mr. George A. Fisher, formerly of Syracuse, now of Chicago, against either of the Dundores."

"Billy is matched against Wilson," suggested the muddle-head, feebly.

"Who is Wilson?" cried the other. "Wilson doesn't exist. Wilson is a myth. Wilson is a fake. The whole affair is a fake. You and the Dundores know it. There was no match, no deposit, no Wilson, nothing, nothing, nothing but a fake."

The audience, already turbulent, were now worked to fever-heat. The two policemen who had charge of this mob clutched their clubs nervously. A general scrimmage was imminent. The women in the balcony grew frightened. They had merely come to see chickens killed; they were alarmed at a prospect of broken heads.

Then the muddlehead, who was umpire, timekeeper, and master of ceremonies, made matters worse by averring that somebody on the South Side had said that he would kill three ducks while somebody on the North Side killed one. All the chicken-dressers in the place rose to repel this insult. A beardless youth was so indignant that, seizing his father on a front bench, he caught that venerable person by the hair and labored him until the police seized him and clubbed him gently down-stairs. A glass of beer was sent by the proprietor of the hall to the youth's aged parent, who, revived thereby, viewed the rest of the proceedings with equanimity.

OVER

At twenty-five minutes before 11, after the slim young man at the piano, frightened out of his wits, had performed "Marching Through Georgia" with trembling fingers, the curtain rose and disclosed Mr. Jacob T. Dundore, the champion chicken-dresser, in a blue jersey, red belt, and black knee-breeches; Mr. William Dundore, his younger brother, a callow youth; Mr. Peterson, introduced as the "champion chicken-killer"; and Mr. Bartelier, the "champion scalding."

Cries arose of "There they go!" "Give it to 'em, boys!" and the doomed chickens were brought forward to meet their fate. The women in the balcony were delighted. One of them held up her baby to see the execution. And the babe crowed.

THE CONTEST IN PROGRESS.

One by one the fowls were dragged from the condemned cells and handed quickly to Mr. Peterson, who was appropriately attired in a red shirt. At this point, seeing Mr. Peterson, penknife in hand, their philosophy deserted them. The noble calm which they had preserved so well gave place to terrible wallings and squawkings. "What are you doing?" "What are you doing?" they seemed to cry. Mr. Peterson held them between his knees and cut off their heads; and as each head fell the women in the balcony counted "One," like the knitting-women at the foot of the guillotine.

When the birds had been thrown into the caldron, Mr. Jacob Dunmore proceeded to dress them. This he did by plucking off their feathers by about seven motions of his hands. He was accompanied by such criticisms as "Go it, Jake!" "Good boy, Jake!" "You're getting winded, Jake!" with various learned criticisms which the umpire tempered by saying, "Remember he's got a sore hand, boys." The task of dressing twenty-five chickens was accomplished in something less than four minutes. And that was the whole contest.

There were more fights, more scrimmages with the police, more cries of "Swipe the cops," more challenges, more claims to the title of "champion dresser," and a general conviction that this was the last public chicken dressing that would ever be seen in Chicago.

Mr. Peterson went on decapitating fowls. And the women in the balcony staid to the end, absolutely charmed with the exhibition.

388. ROSA BERTHA DUNDORE

Third child of (239) Jacob Truman Dundore

Sex: Female
Birth: October 27, 1889.
Death: November 17, 1959, Chicago Illinois.
Buried: Acacia Park Cemetery, Chicago, Illinois.
Father: Jacob Truman Dundore
Mother: Sophia Dundore (Hecht)
Married: Wilmer Gustav Dillman. June 27, 1914. Chicago, Illinois
Born: November 10, 1888. Chicago, Illinois
Death: April 18, 1959. Chicago, Illinois.
Buried: Acacia Park Cemetery, Chicago, Illinois.
Children: Bernice Alberta Dillman. born: August 10, 1916
Chicago, Illinois.

Rosa Bertha Dundore (Rose) lost her father when she was just 3 1/2 years old, and along with her two older siblings, Mabel and Albert, was raised to adulthood by her mother Sophia Hecht Dundore. Not much is known about Rose's childhood. We know she lived with her family on Diversey Avenue in Chicago, where she attended school and later, in her 20's lived with her family on Wolfram Street while working in the office of a book company. At one point, while in her teens, she belonged to a dance or acting troop of some kind as evidenced by the photograph to the right.

Rose's family was listed in the 1914 city directory, as living at 1515 W. School Street, in Chicago, the same year she married Wilmer Gustav Dillman. Wilmer had been living with his widowed mother Sophia and younger sister Olive Myrtle, just down the block from the Dundore's at 1446 W. School Street. He and Rose no doubt met in the neighborhood. The new couple moved in with Wilmer's family, where their only child Bernice Alberta Dillman was born on August 10, 1916.

WILMER GUSTAV DILLMAN

March 1920

Rose Dundore married Wilmer Dillman on June 27, 1914.

Wilmer was born in 1889 to Frederick and Sophia Dillman, of 29 W. May Street, Chicago, Illinois. Wilmer's father, a motorman on a Chicago cable street car, died on the job from a heart attack in 1910, leaving Wilmer, his mother, and sister, Olive Myrtle to fend for themselves.

The 1920 census shows that Wilmer, Rose, and their daughter Bernice were living in a rental home in the 4600 block of Campbell Avenue. Wilmer, working as a salesman, was employed by the Chicago Mercantile Exchange and as part of his job, doing a lot of traveling through out the Midwest. Before long, in the early 1920's, they moved west into the Norwood Park area of Chicago, buying their very first home at 5852 North Harlem Avenue.

The home on Harlem Avenue was large enough to accommodate Wilmer and Rose's widowed mothers, Sophia Matthias Dillman, and Sophia Hecht Dundore. Their Daughter Bernice would often recall sleeping at night between her grandmothers, the "Two Sophie's". Hard times soon came upon them, when they lost their home in the "Great Depression". Like many other families of that era, the Dillmans would never fully recover. Wilmer also lost his job at the Exchange. He had been purchasing shares on the stock market since he was 19 years old, and one by one, saw whatever assets he had obtained, become worthless. All that remained were the four cemetery plots he and Rose had purchased in 1923, at the Acacia Park Cemetery in Norwood Park, Chicago, Illinois.

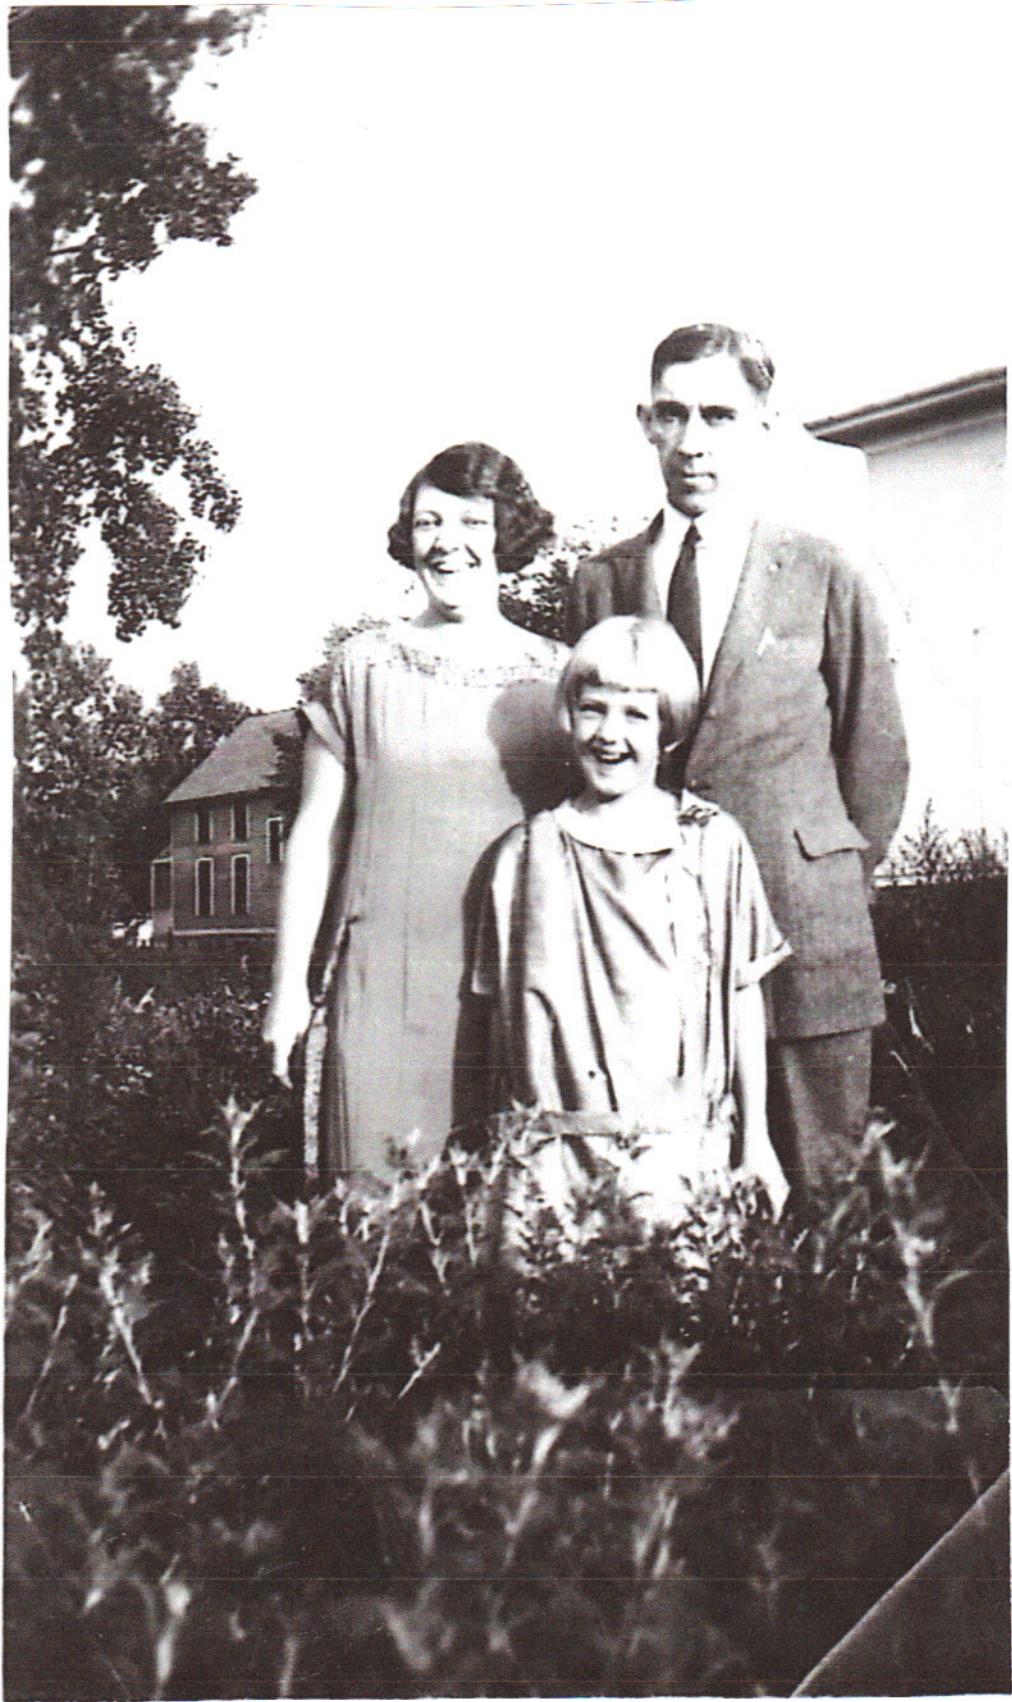

Rose and Wilmer attempted to get back on their feet again. Wilmer went into a partnership and formed the D & R Decorating Service at 2500 Orchard Street in Chicago. The business was fairly successful, with Wilmer estimating and lining up the jobs, while his partner and employees performed the work. He and Rose never were able to buy another home, but did manage to obtain three vacant lots on Berwyn Avenue in Chicago, not far from their old house on Harlem Avenue. With their daughter getting married in 1935, Wilmer and Rose moved to a rental home at 4943 North Merrimac Avenue, in the nearby Gunderson area. There they lived for almost ten years, until in 1949; their lives drastically changed once more.

My Grandparents, Rose and Wilmer Dillman.
(Barry Phillips)

Rose and Wilmer Dillman were my grandparents on my mother, Bernice Dillman Phillips' side. My earliest memory in life is that of leaving their home on Merrimac Avenue, after I had just turned 4 years old. My grandfather had suffered a major stroke and was completely paralyzed, with the exception of moving his left arm uncontrollably.

Standing on the front porch, I asked my father if my grandpa was going to get better. His answer was "I'm afraid not". My parents sold the house they had built only three years previously, and using the lots on Berwyn Avenue built a much larger home which included a one bedroom "in-law apartment". There, my parents provided for Wilmer and Rose for the rest of their lives.

Rose cared for Wilmer 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, for the next 11 years. She would occasionally be relieved to go to Sunday morning church, or a rare evening at a local movie. With the help of my older brothers, she had a fairly large garden every summer. Not wanting to be totally reliant on her family, she would take in sewing work, and make crafts, which were sold at

STATE OF ILLINOIS } ss.

I, Evyleen F. Hewitt

a Notary Public, in and for said County, in the State aforesaid, do hereby certify that

A. K. Gremling personally known to me to be the Secretary of ACACIA PARK CEMETERY ASSOCIATION, INC., whose name is subscribed to the foregoing instrument, appeared before me this day in person and acknowledged that as such Secretary he signed and delivered said instrument of writing and caused the Corporate Seal of said Association to be affixed thereto, pursuant to authority given by the Board of Directors of said Association, as his free and voluntary act, and as the free and voluntary act and deed of said Association for the uses and purposes therein set forth.

In 1922, Mr. Street Lightfoot, representing the Acacia Park Cemetery Association Inc., purchased over 300 acres of farm land from William Henry Phillips and sons, for the purpose of creating a cemetery for exclusive use by members of the Fraternal Order of Ancient Free and Accepted Masons and other similar groups. Wilmer being a Mason, and Rose belonging to the Eastern Star Association, bought four burial plots there in 1923. A decade later, rules were changed to admit anyone, but the cemetery deed above is an interesting read. Today, Wilmer and Rose Dillman are buried in Acacia Park, along with Wilmer's sister, Olive Myrtle Dillman. Also buried there, is their daughter Bernice Alberta, and her husband, Robert Phillips, grandson of William Henry Phillips.

local school and church bazaars. This money was almost totally spent on spoiling my brothers and I, who would receive many wonderful gifts each Christmas.

My mother took her father's illness very hard, and on advice of her doctor, started spending more time away from home, becoming active in the PTA, her church group, and other neighborhood organizations. Her and my father would often dine out with friends. As a result, I would spend many hours being cared for by my grandmother, Rose.

I don't remember ever seeing my grandfather before he was stricken, and the only sound I ever heard him utter was something akin to "Bi Yah Bi Yah". Many hours were spent sitting next to him on his bed, and telling him of things that were going on in my life. I would often gaze into his eyes, looking for some sign of recognition, wondering if he understood anything I was saying, and what if anything he was thinking. What stories would he tell, and what advice would he give, if only he could.

To help relieve stress and boredom, Rose had purchased a television set, one of the first in the neighborhood. Televised shows were at first, few and far between, starting with "Don McNeals breakfast Club" in the morning and after several hours of the station test pattern (an Indian in full head dress) would resume with "The Liberace Show". Rose and I loved both shows, but the evenings were always special.

In her living room, lit only by the glow of the television, and a cigarette, we would watch live wrestling. Rose had become a great fan of a very muscular wrestler named Gorgeous George. He had long blond locks and was always attired in a rather skimpy, tight, men's bathing suit. There was a cigarette dispenser in the form of an Asian elephant, which upon the turning of it's tail would produce one "Chesterfield" per crank. I would do so, and then have the job of striking a match, as she chain smoked, and roused for George through the evening.

Rose always kept her bible on a stand in one corner of the living room, and read from it every day. Although I knew the answer, I once asked her why she didn't go to church more often. She told me that God was always with her, always in her heart, and would hear her every prayer, even if she was in the closet. Her faith in God and love of Wilmer was what kept her going day after day.

In the mid 1950's a singer named Elvis Presley had become the latest rage, and Rose and I took a liking to the rebellious young entertainer. She could hardly hide her excitement when my father took us to see his first motion picture, "Love me Tender", and the following year, when his Christmas Album was released, Rose gladly bought it for me. Being 13 years old, I liked the first side, consisting of popular songs done in his "Rock and Roll" style. Rose on the other hand liked the second side which contained more traditional, religious Christmas songs, done in a much more reverent manner. Together, we would listen to the entire album, time and again.

In April of 1959, Wilmer Dillman, after being bed ridden for 11 years, passed away in his sleep. Rose was lost, and 6 months later in October of that year suffered a stroke and died shortly thereafter, of a heart attack. I always believed my grandmother died of a broken heart.

Each Christmas, once the tree is trimmed, I sit back and listen to "Elvis's Christmas Album" and remember my grandparents, Wilmer and Rose. How lucky I was to have had them.

THE ELEPHANT IN THE ROOM

Rose Dillman would sit in her darkly lit living room, smoking cigarettes dispensed from the elephant above. Loaded carefully into the box upon the elephants back, one turn of his tail would produce a cigarette to the cradle below his belly

Pastor Johannes Gerhard Kircher, of the German Evangelical Synod of North America, founded the Bethlehem Evangelical Church in the Lake View area of Chicago in 1883. Until World War I, services were held in German. Such would have been the case when Wilmer Gustav Dillman was confirmed there in 1903. His confirmation ribbon, now enclosed in glass, is a cherished family heirloom.

DUNDORE FAMILY

COMPILED BY

NATHAN DUNDORE.

HOLST CHURCH ERECTED IN 1775.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS.

After several years of collecting, condensing and arranging, the Record is completed, ready to go out among those for whom it is intended.

Only those who have undertaken similar work can form a just estimate of the many difficulties surrounding such a task. This work was not undertaken with any expectation of gain, but solely to supply what was desired by many—a reasonably correct Record of the Dundore Family. I have my sufficient reward in the belief that I have satisfactorily accomplished that which I started out to do.

I was confronted at the outset with the absence of sufficient data to make a correct start, namely: a full and correct record of the family of our first ancestor in this country—Jacob. On this point I had been seeking information for years before sending out the circular of March, 1878.

This point was only cleared up within a year past, when the possibility of a Will being in existence was suggested,—this suggestion being followed up, and to my great satisfaction made clear what had in part been conjecture before.

The Record is now complete from Jacob down, as regards the male line. It would be a great satisfaction to have the full record of all the descendants, male and female, but it was found inexpedient to extend it beyond one generation respectively, on the female side.

It would be claiming probably too much to say that the Record is free from errors, considering the large number of names and dates, and these not always plainly written by those who furnished the data. Should there be any, those interested will do me a favor to report the same.

The system on which the Record is made up is that recommended by the Pennsylvania Historical Society, with slight modifications, and will be readily understood.

To secure the several family records and other data, I had necessarily to depend on the friendly co-operation of various members of the family; indeed, without this aid the Record would have been very incomplete. Foremost among these I name Jonathan Dundore, of Iona, Lebanon County, Adam M. Dundore, of Reading, Philip Y. Dundore, of Plainfield, Illinois, and Nathan T. Dundore, of Dundore, Snyder County; to the latter I am under special obligations.

The sources of information in Pennsylvania respecting its early settlers, are "The Colonial Records of Pennsylvania," "Pennsylvania Archives" (first and second series), and the unpublished manuscripts in possession of the "Pennsylvania Historical Society," Philadelphia; all of these have been more or less carefully searched, and the extracts herein given is all there is of reference to our family.

Any one having facts not herein stated is kindly requested to make the same known.

A BRIEF STATEMENT OF FACTS

REGARDING THE LIFE OF

JACOB DUNDORE,<sup>1</sup>

AND EARLY HISTORY OF THE FAMILY;

TOGETHER WITH SOME FAMILY TRADITIONS AND REMARKS ON LOCAL HISTORY.

Brechl

Jacob Dunder was born July 25th, 1720; was married about the year 1745 to Anna Maria ~~✓~~, emigrating to this country either shortly before this event, or immediately after; that he came from a fine farming region and was a farmer himself, is the tradition frequently repeated by my Aunt Catharine Lieb (19), the oldest living representative of the family. Another universal tradition in the family is that he was of French descent. I have been thus far unsuccessful in my researches extending over a number of years, and in following up every clue, to fix upon the precise country he came from, but undoubtedly it was from one of the Rhine Provinces — Alsace or Lorraine. Settling down among an exclusively German population, and writing his name in German, are evidences that his education was in that language; leaving the inference that if born in France proper, he must have left his native country early in life, settling among Germans, and thus necessitating their language and habits.

It is the opinion of the compiler that there is information on this point extant which it is hoped this publication will bring to the light. It is more than likely that the "large bible" referred to, in the inventory, is in existence, and that it contains some written matter leading to the solution of this question.

The name appears for the first time, in any preserved record known, in the old records of the Host Church, in Berks County, this State, in the year 1749, where the birth of a child is recorded, giving "Jacob

"Dondeer" as the father; after this the name occurs at intervals in these records as children were born.*

subject. The name appears again in 1779, in same series, Vol. III, page 378, attached to a remonstrance very largely signed by the Germans of Berks and adjacent counties, against calling a convention for the purpose of changing the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, namely, "Jacob Dunder" and "Jacob Dunder, Jr."
(John Jacob 6)

The next mention of the name in a public document is in the Pennsylvania Archives, second series, volume 11, page 402, setting forth that on April 10th, 1760, "Jacob Dunder" was naturalized by the "Supreme" Court sitting in Philadelphia + those he come in Frock.

This farm he conveyed by deed to his eldest son John 4, signing Jacob Dundee in German; from whom it passed to his son John Adam 11, by deed, signing John Dundee, in bold round English; John Adam divided the farm between his two sons Samuel E. 31 and Adam E. 32, signing Adam Dundee, in German,—Adam E. obtaining the portion having on it the old homestead,—the farms being in their possession at this date.

Jacobs' died May 12th, 1789, and was buried in the Bern Church Yard; his grave, in the oldest part of the ground, is marked by a substantial and well preserved yellow sand-stone, bearing the following inscription:*

IN THE NAME OF GOD, AMEN.
This Indenture witnesseth, that I Jacob Dundör of Bern township Berks County State of Pennsylvania being in good health and sound mind but remembering my mortality recommend my soul in the hands of God who gave it and my body after natural death to Christian burial by my executors.

Touching my worldly Estate wherewith the Lord has blessed me in my lifetime I have sold and bestowed unto my lawful Heirs or Children as follows:

Firstly, I have sold to my eldest living son, John, my Plantation containing two hundred and forty-six acres more or less with a free deed in Bern township, adjoining lands of Peter Kershner and Jacob Conrad for the sum of nine hundred and fifty pounds hard money in gold or silver lawful specie as it is current in Pennsylvania; and said John my son shall at the expiration of one year after the date of my death make a payment of sixty pounds, and then on yearly on said date he shall pay sixty pounds until the said sum is fully paid. These annual payments of sixty pounds shall be made in five equal parts to my children (my son John inheriting along with the rest) with the exception that my son Jacob already has received two hundred pounds and my daughter Catharine fifty-five pounds these shall receive nothing until after deduction of the money received.

Secondly, I ordain and bequeath to my beloved wife Anna Maria, one hundred pounds out of my Estate, and this sum shall remain on the Estate so long as she lives and the lawful interest shall yearly be paid to her, to wit:—six per cent. per hundred, and the said one hundred pounds as also her other remainder shall in six years after my beloved wife's death be distributed in five equal shares among my five children; further shall be paid in hand to my beloved wife, ten pounds out of the personal Estate before hands; further shall be delivered to her yearly out of my Estate by my son John ten bushels of good Wheat, seven bushels of good Rye, twenty pounds of long hatched Hemp, or the same quantity of good hatched Flax, fifteen pounds of tow of Hemp or Flax as she may choose, one fat hog, no less than one hundred pounds in weight, shall be delivered to her killed including the lard, and salted down; also forty pounds Beef which shall in like manner be salted down for her, the fleeces from two of the best sheep in the flock,—these shall be delivered to her yearly about the month of December.

Further she shall have the right to take another Cow every spring together with the Calf,—if said Cow should not give enough milk the then following Winter, then plenty of milk shall be given her, and this cow shall be turned into any field that she may desire and be well fed Winter and Summer, she may feed through Summer half an acre of the best grass, also when necessary the Cow shall be milked for her. FURTHER shall be given her two barrels of good Cider, and she shall be at liberty to take as many Apples for drying as she pleases, and one bushel of Fine Salt shall be delivered to her in the Fall of every year; and if she should not be able to live in peace with my son John all the foregoing reservations shall be delivered to her at another place. The Linen shall be woven and whitened for her at the cost of the Estate;—she shall retain for her use two beds, to wit:—the one in her room and the one in the other room, which shall remain standing where it now is, where she may lay her visitors; the house clock if she desires it shall also be hers as long as she lives, she may live in this or the other room at her pleasure, she may take as much space in the garden as she may have occasion for herself, for Cabbage, Turnips, Potatoes and Beans; the third part of the vegetable cellar and spring house shall be hers; a riding creature shall be given her to church and to visit friends as often as she requests it, and some one shall ride with her that in all dangers takes care of her, and in case she would not or could not be on this Estate with my son John, then all her aforesaid Reservations shall be delivered to my other son, or any one of my daughters at the aforementioned time; the manure shall be hauled in her garden and firewood to the house and cut small upon occasion, the fire shall be made for her in the stove, the hauling to and from the Mill shall be done for her upon occasion, the Bread shall be baked for her, and in sickness a Nurse shall be kept for her and all this at the expence of my son John; the garden shall be cultivated for her, she may also take as many Eggs as she has occasion for her use, and if she moves shall not lose her House-right, but she may at the expiration of one year or day take possession of above mentioned right; Tallow or Fish Oil shall be given her as much as she wants for lighting purposes and if she can't bear the fish oil tallow must be given her, all the aforesaid reservations my son John, (or after him if he would not take the Plantation at the sum set, the next heir till to the last heir) shall deliver same, and although I have sold my plantation to my son John hereditary yet it shall not be sold during the life time of my beloved wife unless it be by her consent; my son John shall have for his Birth-right ten pounds beforehand and no more; he shall also deliver to my wife (which was overlooked above) yearly, two gallons of Rum with the Cider about the month of November.

My son Jacob shall deliver yearly to my beloved wife four bushels good Wheat, and four bushels of good Rye, fifty pounds of Pork with

The Executors with the Will annexed were his son Jacob (John Jacob), and Frederick Gerhart, his son-in-law.

The Inventory* (omitting many small items), made by them of the personal effects, is as follows:

—he shall not exceed more than two hundred pounds against my other children. He my son Jacob shall pay no interest nor principal till the Plantation whereon he lives is paid in full and then my son Jacob shall pay yearly twenty-five pounds and inherit along thereat till my children are even one with another.

After my death both of my sons shall give bonds to my daughters named as follows: to Mrs. Susanna Gerhart and her heirs, to Mrs. Catharine Smith and her heirs, to Mrs. Catharine Elizabeth Shauer and her heirs, and when my children have agreed one with another in peace and both my sons have given the said bonds to my daughters then both Deeds shall be their own and their heirs forever, the Deeds and other costs touching the piece of Woodland at the Blue Mountain shall be paid out of my Estate, and each of my children shall have equal right upon occasion to cut wood on said piece of land but not to sell;—my beloved wife shall have the right to take any kitchen furniture in use, she shall also have a right to take as much Linnen as she wants, and of all that my beloved wife keeps a perfect inventory shall be made and that which she does not want shall be sold after my death at public vendue and after her death that which remains be distributed among my five children in equal shares. Both our funeral expenses shall be paid out of the whole Estate; after my death the ready money and the money received from the vendue shall be paid to my daughters which shall be offset by a like sum by each of my sons on account of their

At an Orphans Court held at Reading in and for the County of Berks the fifth day of March A. D. 1800 before the Hon. Jacob Bush Esq. Nicholas Lutz and Benjamin Morris Esqrs Judges &c. The within account of the administration of Jacob Dundore dec'd being produced before the Court the same is allowed.

By the Court

JAMES SCULL, Clerk.

Respecting the orthography of the name a few words will not be out of place. Those who read and understand German will readily understand that the name as it was brought to this country was not Dundore, but pronounced as if written Dundare. The last syllable of the name as herein given was by different persons written “der” — “deer” — “dæər” and “dör,” each equivalent to the English dare.

It is asserted traditionally that the inscription on the tombstone is the correct orthography. In opposition to this we find John, the eldest son of Jacob,<sup>1</sup> writing his name Dundore. The descendants of John,<sup>1</sup> (Appendix) without exception, also write Dundore.

With the present information it is impossible to decide which is nearest correct, and as the divergence is not great the solution of the question is of no practical importance.

When written in German, the terminal “e” is usually left off as being redundant; that is Dundor—some few write so in English. It has now crystallized into DUNDORE,* and this method is followed throughout in this Record.

*The following letter explains itself and is given in corroboration of what is above stated.

RECORDEE'S OFFICE, READING, Dec. 16, 1874.

MR. NATHAN DUNDORE.
Sir: Your letter of 15 inst. rec'd, and in reply would say that by searching the old records, I find the name of Dundore spelled thus—Dundor, & Dundore. In 1785, Respecting the place of first settlement of Jacob,<sup>1</sup> or at what port he landed, nothing definite is known,—not improbably Baltimore or Charleston, the two principal ports south of Philadelphia;—this belief is founded on the fact that the name is not found in “Rupp's Thirty Thousand Names of Emigrants into Pennsylvania,” who for the most part landed in Philadelphia. As stated, we find the family in the neighborhood of the Host Church in 1749. This Church is located in Tulpehocken township, Berks County, at that time Lancaster County.

In 1852 Berks was erected; all that part of the County lying west of the Schuylkill was taken from Lancaster—Tulpehocken township at that time taking in all the western end of this strip, now subdivided into a number of townships. In the Colonial Records all the regn round about was called “Tulpehocken,” without reference to county lines, which indeed were quite indefinite. It was also known as the “Back Country,” and “Border Settlements,”—and at the time Jacob settled here the Blue Mountains or Kittatiny Range, as it was then known, formed the boundary line between the white settlements and the Indian territory. The Host Church is distant eight to ten miles from this range. The Indians being unfriendly at this period much suffering and loss was occasioned the settlers in the Tulpehocken Country from their frequent predatory incursions; buildings were destroyed, fields despoiled of their crops, and many of the settlers killed by the savages. In many respects the early history of Tulpehocken is the counterpart of the Wyoming Valley,—its full history remains to be written.

It is not surprising, therefore, that educational matters were almost entirely neglected. The only schools were those belonging to the churches,—the parish schools. These schools were maintained until the full introduction of the free schools, the school-master resided on the parish farm, teaching school in Winter and working the farm in Summer; his further duties were that of chorister, and having the general care and preservation of the Church.

The Host Church naturally became the centre and rallying point for a large surrounding district, the Church having been established at an Deed from Jacob Dundore, (spelled so throughout the whole Deed.) Bern Township, Berks Co., to Valentine Hebert, signed by him in German—Jacob Dundor, thus I find it spelled in the Grantor's Index Dundore up to 1832 when I find it spelled Dundor.

In the Grantor Index I find Deed from Ad. Schow to Jacob Dundore's Exor. Bern Township, spelled Dundore.

It appears that Dundor and Dundore are the same persons, as it appears on our records. In the Grantee Index it seems to be spelled Dundor from 1790 to 1814 when it is spelled Dundore again. It is spelled now generally Dundore. Hoping the above may be satisfactory, I remain, early period of the settlement, by the Classis of Amsterdam and Synod of South and North Holland, as a mission station; <sup>the</sup> the pastoral Letter is still preserved in the parish. The present edifice was dedicated in 1775, of which there is a photograph given. The view is from the rear. In the foreground is seen the modern Cemetery, the old graveyard being out of view in the back ground (on the front of the Church). The Church is in a good state of preservation, the walls being to all appearances as good as the day they were built; the material is blue limestone, laid in lime mortar, pointed; trimmings of corners, windows and doors are of a light colored sand stone; in size it is large for the period in which it was built, probably the largest and most substantial church building in the County at that time. The belfry is a later addition; the interior has also been remodelled, the brick floor replaced by a wooden one and a gallery and organ loft added. Owing to its elevated position its fine toned bell is heard for many miles around.

Yours, &c.,

The custom of ringing it on every secular day at the noon hour, for the benefit of the farmers, is still kept up; so also the ringing on the death of any person in the neighborhood, ending by tolling the number of years of deceased. On June 12th and 13th, 1875, the centenary of the Church was celebrated by a series of religious exercises, conducted by the clergy of the Reformed and Lutheran denominations, who are joint occupants,—the latter denomination having been some years since admitted to joint ownership. It was the rare fortune of the compiler to be present on this interesting occasion.

It has been deemed an acceptable service to refer at some length to this historical structure, since it forms such an interesting connecting link between the events of more than a century past and the present, and more particularly that our first ancestor attended divine service within its walls, as well as all of his family.

The Bern Church* connects the past with the present still closer, for it is here his remains lie buried,—the photograph herein given of the grave-yard gives the brick church, erected in 1837, in the back-ground. The picture was taken some years ago, and with no reference to the use now made of it, and unfortunately does not bring into view his resting place,—it is on a line and quite a distance to the left of the tomb-stones shown in the foreground. As the grave-yard is a large one, only a portion of it is seen in this view. Here also lie buried his two sons John and John Jacob, and many of his grand-children and their children, and is still the burying place of a number of families living in the vicinity. The land upon which the Church is built and surrounding farm was deeded to the Church (Reformed) by Richard and John Penn. Like Host, it is now the joint property of Reformed and Lutheran.

Reference is also made to the "North Heidelberg" Church. This is a small brick building, also owned jointly by Reformed and Lutheran. The first building was put up by the Moravians, who had here formed a settlement under Count Zinzendorf. The colony has long since disappeared.

"Zion" Church, referred to in the Record, has no historical interest aside from the fact that it was built and for many years supported mainly by the efforts of John Dundore (12 B. B.), and his family. It belongs to the Evangelical Association.

PERSONAL REMARKS.

Regarding occupation, the family has been true to their inheritance: having been born to a farmer's life, they have successfully followed that pursuit to the present day. Their habits of industry, sobriety and thrift has enabled them almost without exception to own the farms they till'd — fithy illustrating the motto "Labor Omnia Vincit," (Labor conquers everything). They are not only successful but progressive farmers. Of the living generations a few have chosen the medical profession, and a larger number mercantile pursuits.

Law-abiding, the name rarely appears in lawsuits, and has perhaps never been on a criminal docket.

Politically, the family is divided between the two great parties of the day—republican and democratic; having been almost without exception, of the democratic faith down to the time of the breaking out of the Rebellion; the issues of the war divided, but not estranged the several members.

They have rarely sought political office, but very many of them have been, and are now, public school directors, and they are to be found among the foremost, in the several communities in which they reside, in advancing educational matters. Probably the highest offices held by any one of the name are Adam M. (30 H. B.), who is the present Treasurer of Bucks County, and Franklin (84 B. B.), who recently retired from Select Council of Philadelphia.

Respecting church matters, they were originally German Reformed, as were all the French Huguenots—probably the greater portion still hold to this church. Quite a large number have become connected with the Evangelical Association, and a few with the Lutheran and other churches.

The foregoing statement is made for the mutual benefit of the widely separated members of the family, some of whom will for the first time learn the direct line of their relationship when they see this Record.

DEAR SIR: You may be aware that I have been gathering material for some time for a Genealogical Record of the DUNDORE Family. I have found many difficulties in getting dates as well as full names; you are therefore requested to fill up the blank as far as it relates to your family and return it to me in the enclosed envelope — attend to this at once. It is the intention to have it printed in a neat pamphlet and be sold at cost price to any who may want it.

2. MARIA CATHARINE,<sup>2</sup> b. Mar. 19, 1749, d. _____.
3. SUSANNA,<sup>2</sup> b. _____, d. _____.
4. JOHN,<sup>2</sup> b. Mar. 20, 1751, d. Oct. 14, 1823.
5. MICHAEL,<sup>2</sup> b. Dec. 4, 1754, d. _____.
6. JOHN JACOB,<sup>2</sup> b. Mar. 19, 1756, d. Sep. 22, 1821.
7. DAVID,<sup>2</sup> b. July 21, 1758, d. _____.
8. CATHARINE ELIZABETH,<sup>2</sup> b. _____, d. _____.
9. SON, name not known, b. _____, d. _____.

The inscription on the tombstone states there were eight children, viz: five sons and three daughters.

* * * * *

In the will only five are mentioned, viz: two sons and three daughters; it is therefore inferred that the other three sons either died during minority or without families.

MARIA CATHARINE married John Smith.

Their descendants moved to the Wyoming Valley where some of them still reside.

SUSANNA married Frederick Gerhart.

They resided in the vicinity of the Host Church, and their descendants are still to be found in that neighborhood, and are among the most esteemed citizens of that section.

CATHARINE ELIZABETH married Adam Shower (Schauer). The families of this name living in the vicinity of Bernville, are undoubtedly of this stock,—a matter that has not been looked up. JOHN settled in Bern Township, near the present site of Bernville; his descendants are known as the "Bern Branch."

JOHN JACOB<sup>x</sup> settled in Heidelberg Township, the Tulpehocken Creek dividing the two farms, and being also the Township line between Bern and Heidelberg; his descendants are known as the "Heidelberg Branch."

For convenience of reference the Record will be presented under two divisions, viz:

First,—"BERN BRANCH."
Second,—"HEIDELBERG BRANCH."

<sup>x</sup>He divided his farm between his two sons, John Adam and John. That of John Adam is now the property of his youngest son, Adam M.

18. ELIZABETH<sup>3</sup> b. March 10, 1794, d. about 1867.

This family is remarkable for the average age attained. Leaving out John George (who died at the age of 15, of lockjaw), the remaining eight averaged fully 75 years, although two had their deaths hastened by accidents, namely, Catharine (Mrs. Miesse), died from a strangulated ruphere caused by being thrown out of a sleigh, and Frederick lost his life by being run over by a railroad train.

177. WILLIE JACOB,<sup>7</sup> b. July 25, 1875.

In searching for the full family of Jacob<sup>1</sup> before coming in possession of his Will, the compiler entered into extensive correspondence with County officials in Pennsylvania and Virginia—the fact of the existence of a rather numerous branch of the family residing in Northumberland, Lancaster, York and Union Counties, Pennsylvania; in the Shenandoah Valley, Virginia; and various points in Maryland, and scattered through the Western States, was discovered, unknown to the present generation of the descendants of Jacob<sup>1</sup>. Every effort was made to ascertain the relationship existing between the two families. The discovery of the Will disclosed the fact that the entire line of Jacob<sup>1</sup> was known, and that the relationship must be looked for elsewhere. Looking through the "Host" Church records it was found that a certain John Dundore had been a resident in that vicinity, as the following translated extracts show:

"1749.

"Baptism of a child, —Catharina Jacobina; the father Joh. Dunther;
"May 6th. Sponsor Miss Mayer."

"1753.

"John Dondoer and Maria Dorothe brought an infant daughter to
"baptism, on April 9th. The sponsors were Jacob Dundore* and Anna
"Maria, his wife."

The extracts are from the same record heretofore quoted from. The various ways in which the name was then written by clergymen and others, is here also shown. In the Deed received by Jacob<sup>1</sup> to his farm in Bern township, which afterward became the property of John (4 B. B.) it is several times written "Dunther."

The Records of the Register of Wills office in York County, show that John Dundore died in that County in 1774, Jacob Dundore, his son, appearing as administrator.

In the Inventory of the personal estate of Jacob the name of George Dundore occurs. John Dundore, of Huntertown, Adams County, gives his grandfather's name as Christopher; it is therefore assumed that he had at least three sons, viz: George, Christopher and Jacob.

Jacob Dundore, of Mt. Clinton, Rockingham County, Virginia, gives his father's name as Christopher, but knows nothing of his grandparents "as his father left his home when quite young, on account of his step-mother." It seems quite probable that he was named after his father (Christopher). In the light of the foregoing I have made up the following record so kindly furnished me by some members of this branch of the family.

Having the material on hand, it was thought of sufficient interest to the family at large to print it along with the Record proper in form of an Appendix. The conclusion is irresistible that Jacob and John were brothers. That the two families lost all knowledge of each other is probably due to the descendants of Jacob remaining north and east of the Susquehanna, or removing to the far West, while those of John resided south and west of this river, and the course of business never bringing them together.
